THE UNION BANK.

We trust that the charter of the Union Bank will undergo some salutary modififications by the next legislature. A worse drawn charter never encumbered a statute book.

We have said we are opposed to the funding system. If there is any princide in the world which is odious, it is to ledge the faith of a State, to lay every nan's property in the land liable to taxation to raise funds to enable a private company to make money by banking .-This liability, too, is to continue for the period of forty years. What right has a ons and habilities upon posterity? There are, probably, at least, four hundred at more than two thousand men will get tock in the Union Bank; yet, for the benefit of these two thousand the property of the whole community is placed in copardy, and must be taxed if the Bank breaks. Is this equal rights?

But we have the bank, we have incurbe remoddled. The capital is too large and should be reduced. It should also be fits go into the State Treasury. If the Sarah M'Cay, all of this place. whole people are liable for this institutution, the whole people should share its profits, and not a few men eajoy them exclusively. The profits arising from this bank, if placed in the State treasury, and properly appropriated, would be of immense utility. The fund would be enough B. F. If the bank were changed to a State institution, long loans still could be made or eight years on mortgages, and no man hould borrow money for a longer period of time. Let this change be made, and Ithough every Bank is a tax upon proluction, if the profits went into the treaury, the people would receive in one and what they paid out with the other.
